Text Emotion Annotation Guidelines (English version)

Text Emotion Annotation (text emotion classification) is a study to identify the emotions written in texts. The main purpose of this study is to understand the author's feelings based on the articles posted on various social media sites. The text is taken directly from Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, news, and TikTok pages, posted or commented on, and may contain hateful and offensive messages. Your job is to identify the feelings these texts are written in or the feelings of the speaker/writer. First, after carefully reading the text, they choose one of the emotion categories for it. To help you with this, look at the categories of emotions given below with their symbols.

1. Joy/Happy: Includes expressions of joy, gratitude, or satisfaction. Example:
  - It's so fun! May the god of the fathers protect you from evil
  - Henok, you are inside me, it's a cool film
2. Sadness: Contains expressions of sadness, crying, resentment, regret, or despair. Example:
  - It's really sad to hear a sad and horrible report about the problem
  - Oh my God, please just eat us, our grief is stronger
3. Anger: Includes expressions of frustration, anger, cruelty, or anger. Example:
  - My girlfriend sent me a photo of her kissing a guy on purpose to annoy me
  - I am very upset that the ranking table was released after today's game
4. Fear: Contains expressions of anxiety, panic, or fear. Example:
  - When I asked her why, she shocked me by saying that she was my brother
  - Now you scared me
5. Surprise: Contain surprise, astonishment, unexpected/unexpected/sudden fun, prank, fun or shock. Example:
  - Wow, it's a great movie, I didn't expect that
  - Amazingly, we all saw the wonderful Habeshawit who captured the attention of millions
6. Disgust: Relating to disgust, displeasure, or hatred. Example:
  - Without ensuring the security of the citizens, the security department's policies
  - I don't eat this kind of food, it just disgusts me when I see it.
7. Neutral: It is a text that is free from any emotion and does not create any good/bad feelings. Example:
  - The first round of the Ethiopian Women's Premier League has ended.
  - It is a movie that is a little different from the usual Ethiopian movie.

2. Instruction/Notice

1. With the instructions above, your job is to identify the speaker's/writer's feelings in the given text.
2. Before giving a mood category, what mood did the author write when he wrote this article? Ask yourself.
3. Whether the article is true or false, right or wrong, does not concern you. Just listen to the writer's feelings.
4. In the writer's place/be the writer, you are only required to identify the writer's feelings.
5. They identify only the writer's feelings, not the feelings he or she creates for the reader.
6. If a text expresses multiple emotions, first select each mixed emotion and rate each emotion as low, medium, or high.
7. Just because a given text contains words for one emotion does not mean it becomes that emotion. For example, a text containing the word death does not always mean Sadness.

Example: The joy I felt on hearing that you died is too much = Joy(happy).

ታይም ሙጽሐት የአየር ንብረት ለውጥ ተጽእኖ ፈጣሪ ካላቸው አንዱ ቅዱስ አስፋው
